

For my artist's date, I got lost. I ended up at a baseball field after taking the wrong train and ended up in Oakland. I tried to include the things I learned from high school to use and tried to get some photography done on my phone.